

Content Management System

Dr. Devika P. Madalli

Abstract: With increase in the amount of content and its heterogeneous nature, it is important to manage content in order to harness it for its right use. Content Management Systems (CMS) help to manage content and organize it so as to facilitate storage and retrieval of the items within. Content can be of different types and accordingly CMSes are also categorized such as document management system, record management systems, asset management system etc. The lecture discusses objectives of content management and the general benefits of using CMS for managing content. It explains basic architecture and working of CMSes.

Keywords:Digital Content, Content management, Content Management Systems, Architecture, CMS Advantages